

Principle of transporting hot and clean air from a top floor to the basement. The advantage is that the whole house will benefit from this dry air. Whenever the house is reasonably airtight (windows closed, etc.) the air should be able to pass through the house from top to bottom as shown in the diagram.

